Gravel Pit Ban Is Considered

By Tim Greene

The planning board voted Tuesday to recommend the insertion of an October town meeting warrant article which would all but ban commercial gravel removal operations in Andover.

At the suggestion of Foster's Pond residents, who fought against the gravel operation now operating in their neighborhood, the board asked Rhys Kear, community development director, to write a bylaw amendment which would allow commercial gravel operations only in areas zoned Industrial A or Industrial D, and then only by special permit. Currently, those industrial areas consist of Lowell Junction, two parcels of land in West Andover which abut the west side of Interstate 93 and a 60-acre triangle of land on the Lawrence city line north of Sutherland Street.

Only gravel removal incident to the construction of a subdivision and gravel removal up to 2000 cubic yards for property improvement would be allowed elsewhere.

Speaking for Fosters Pond residents, Atty. Stephen Cotton asked the board to consider the warrant article, saying, "It ought to be a given that a gravel removal operation in a residential area is an inappropriate activity."

He called the Foster's Pond gravel removal "an industrial type operation in a residential area," and added that the proposed bylaw change was not intended to be a tool to help shut down the operation there. "We're not trying to reopen a wound," he said. "We're not trying to get at an existing gravel pit by another route."

Informed of the board's decision to back the Foster's Pond warrant article proposal, Cotton said, "We're delighted. The way he (Kear) outlined the article to me is completely in accord with the concensus of the residents."

Had the board not backed the article, Cotton said the residents would have entered it as a private article. Selectmen will consider the insertion of the article at their 5 o'clock meeting Monday afternoon in the town hall conference room.

School Bus Problems Face Board

Andover schools may be off to a smooth start, but getting there is causing some problems.

Several parents turned out at the school committee meeting Tuesday night to protest that the new practice of loading buses to capacity jeopardizes the safety of their youngsters who must stand, and drivers have complained of excessive profanity and rowdiness — including the slashing of several seats.

The school committee was quick to respond that the cutback of four to six buses was the result of a tight budget, not simply a desire to "save money," and they indicated support for Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert's suggestion that drivers pull over to the side and evict pupils who don't behave properly.

By way of other remedies, Seifert said the possibility of bus passes — to exclude walkers who sneak onto the crowded buses — has also been considered, and School Chairman Elaine Viehmann reported that at least one parent may insert an article in the warrent for October Town Meeting to fund additional buses.

Business Manager Edward Maguire told the committee that the practice of loading to capacity has not only increased the number of students on every route, but that each bus route is taking "a little longer" as well.

He said the state legislature had set "capacity" as three youngsters per seat (13 inches each), plus up to 25 percent standees (up to 16), for a possible total of 81.

He said every one of the town's 60 routes now has standees, "a considerable change for Andover," though he added that many neighboring communities have been loading buses to capacity "for years and years."

He said he had checked with both the State Department of Transportation and the Registry of Motor Vehicles before going ahead with the new plan, and that both indicated it was legal and safe to have standees.

Maguire added that no buses here have fewer than 40 students, and that "a fair number" have more than 75.

School Committee Assigned

School committeemen received their liaison assignments Tuesday night.

Chairman Elaine Viehmann will be working with Andover High and the 766 Advisory Committee, while Alan Doerr will be working with Bancroft and Doherty schools, John Eaton, Sanborn and Shawsheen; Don Robb, South and West Jr. High and Joe Finn, West Elementary and East Jr. High.

Transportation Reimbursement Is Refused

The school committee, remaining true to history, Tuesday night refused a request by William E. Cohen to pay transportation costs for his two youngsters to out-of-town schools.

Chairman Elaine Viehmann said they had a letter from the school attorney interpreting Chapter 76 to mean that it is not necessary to pay, since they do not pay for the transportation to other children outside the town of Andover.

She said it has been the committee's policy in the past not to fund such students, and that "we intend to continue that policy."

Fall Cleanup Scheduled Sept. 24-27

It's time for Fall cleaning.

The annual Fall Cleanup week will be Sept. 24-27 during which time Andover residents will be able to place as many of those "Keep Andover Clean" bags at curbside on their regular collection day.

The normal restrictions are waived for that week to assist in the annual cleanup.

Residents are advised to save usable items for the annual recycling auction in the spring.

There are a few restrictions. No auto parts or toxic materials will be picked up. Brush must be tied in bundles and no longer than four feet in length. Refrigerators and freezers must have doors removed.

Whitney On Zoning Board

Wesley E. Whitney, 6 Partridge Hill Road, was appointed Monday night to the zoning board of appeals by selectmen.

Whitney had been serving on the board as an associate member and was made a regular member to replace Grover Nix who did not seek reappointment. Whitney's term started immediately and will run to June 30, 1982.

Connections Approved

Selectmen approved sewer connections for two properties now under construction.

One is owned by Mifflin and Fogarty on Lovejoy Road, and the other is owned by Robert Pustell on Porter Road.

Historical Walk Sunday

On Sunday Sept. 16 the Appalachian Mountain Club, Andover Committee, will sponsor a leisure walk along several streets in central Andover including portions of the Phillips Academy campus. The event is not limited to club members and a welcome is extended to everyone to join.

Among houses and buildings of historical and architectural interest along the way, will be the Amos Blanchard House, Lockes Tavern, America House, the Harriet Beecher Stowe House, buildings designed by Charles Bulfinch on the Phillips campus, the route of the long abandoned Andover, Wilmington railroad which was an early business promotion, organized in Locke's Tavern, early houses along Central Street, and the Rose Cottage. The walk will be led by Warren and Bonnie Lewis, and will organize in the municipal parking lot on Main Street near the post office at 1:30 p.m. The route covers about three miles and with stops for observations and comments should take about two hours.

The Andover Historical Society located in the Deacon Amos Blanchard house will be open at the conclusion of the walk until 4p.m. for anyone interested. Please plan to join us for a pleasurable Sunday afternoon.

Paper Thieves Strike Program

By Virginia Cole

Being a recycler seems to demand alot of us, saving, sorting and putting things out at the curb.

Now I have a new request.

Watch out for paper thieves.

This week at least one carload of our paper — yours and mine — was stolen in the Greenwood Road area. The town has a by-law stating that materials put out for recycling belong to the Town of Andover Recycling Inc. has an exclusive contract with the town for their disposal. Recyclables are not for anyone to take. The police have been alerted but they need our help — description of car, license number, where seen. Please call them direct if you see something unusual.

Miller Disposal picks up for us. His trucks are net, clean and painted red. Soon they will have the Andover Recycles red and white sign on them too.

Aluminum cans, foil and clean frozen dinner trays will be collected by Andover Recycling on Saturday Sept. 29 behind Town Hall, at Faith Lutheran Church and West Junior High Parking lot. There seems to be many things going on that day so on your way to buy a picture at Art in the Park or to play soccer, bring us your aluminum.

Calendar: Paper and Magazines, Sept. 17-20; Colored Glass; Green in one container, brown in another Sept. 24-27; Aluminum, Sept. 29.

Genealogists

The Essex County Chapter of Genealogists will meet Saturday, Sept. 15, at the Old Meeting House in Lynnfield. Eleanor Bishop will be the speaker on the D.A.R., its founding, activities, publications and its famous library at Washington, D.C. The meeting will begin at 1 a.m. but members wishing to bring their lunch may do so. Coffee will be served at noon.

Andover High Notebook

By Renee Pruneau

The 1979-80 school year is currently a week old and already students are getting back into the swing of things.

After a hectic orientation day, and an even worse first day of actual classes, the sophomores seem to be adjusting, and making themselves at home in the large high school.

The high school is even more crowded this year than previously, with an extra 150 students. Getting up and down the stairwells between classes is slow work, reminiscent of getting into Boston during the rush hour. It's at times like these when the students wonder whey there will be no additional classrooms at the high school.

Not everyone merely vacationed during the summer. Those in the Student Advisory Council spent many hours reading over all the new material given to them and attending meetings. They designed a new, more personal orientation day, which seemed much more successful then those held in the past. They are currently working on the open ends program, getting applications out and deciding on candidates. Any senior who is interested in this and who has first or eighth period free should see one of the SAC members to find out if he is eligible. The SAC members for this year are: Pat Canavan, chairman; Bill Eaton, Sally Breckinridge, Karen Landry and Sarah Driscoll.

The regional SAC delegates have also been very busy. Both delegate and alternate were elected by their regional councils to the state council. State SAC is the Massachusetts students' only lobbying group. This year one of their projects will be going before the Massachusetts Board of Education. This project proposes a new attendence policy, which will hopefully create a uniform attendence program for the state. Both state delegates attended a four day leadership training seminar at Williams College, during August, and found the experience highly informative. This year's regional and State delegates are: Aaron Gershenburg and Renee Pruneau.

The Young

Alcoholism Clinic Plans Two Programs

The Outpatient Alcoholism Clinic at Lawrence General Hospital announces the formation of two special education groups designed to help adult and children family members who live with an alcohol problem in their home.

The Family Education Group will meet once a week for an hour and a half for ten weeks. The first session is Monday morning, Sept. 24, from 9:30-11 a.m. Group leaders will be professional counselors from the Outpatient Alcoholism Clinic at Lawrence General.

Persons who became part of the group will learn about alcohol and alcoholism, how it affects the family, and how to intervene effectively with an alcohol problem. They will gain personal insight and direction for themselves in relation to the alcohol problem, as well as gain support from sharing with others living with a drinking problem.

The second group is the Children's Education Group, for children ages 7-12, living with an alcohol problem in their home. The group will meet Wednesday afternoons from 3:30-5 p.m. beginning Sept. 26 and continuing for ten weeks. At least one family member of the child should attend the family group mentioned previously.

In the Children's Education Group, children will learn in a small group setting through structured activities, visual aides, sharing and role-playing about alcohol and alcoholism. Children need to be able to ask questions and share their feelings about the drinking problem in their lives, especially with other children who are experiencing similar situations. Group leaders will be counselors from the Outpatient Alcoholism Clinic.

Both groups will meet at the Parker House, home of the Outpatient Alcoholism Clinic, on the grounds of Lawrence General Hospital, 1 General St., Lawrence.

Exhibit On Lynn Opens

On Exhibit

Women working in the stitching room of a Lynn, shoe factory about 1901. Photograph by Frances Benjamin Johnson. Courtesy of the Library of Congress, now on view at the Essex Institute, Salem.

The lives of working people is the theme of a special exhibition at the Essex Institute in Salem, through Jan. 27, 1980.

"Life and Times in Shoe City: The Shoe Workers of Lynn," is supported by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Folcusing on a critical century in the growth of shoe manufacturing in Lynn, the exhibition traces the impact of the industrial revolution on working people. Visitors will initially see how most shoe making was done without machines before 1850 by men and women working with their hands. Moving into the era of industrilization, visitors will observe several key machines that made hand labor obsolete. Patent models, illustrations of new inventions, and views of the factory environment will suggest the tremendous effects of mechanization.

The workers' response to industrial change represented a revolution in human attitudes. Not content to be treated as human tools, Lynn shoe workers began organizing labor unions as early as the 1830s and fought continuously for more than a century to achieve better wages and working conditions. The great shoe strike of 1860 is represented by a photomural and documents. A variety of nineteenth and early twentieth-century shoe workers' union memorabilia illustrates Lynn's militant tradition of labor organizations.

Although the exhibition centers around the concerns of Lynn's working people, visitors will also be able to see evidence of the lifestyles and accomplishments of manufacturers who financed and managed the shoe industry. The evolution of shoe factory architecture will be shown. Social organizations and civic interests of shoe manufacturers are illustrated with a rich assortment of artifacts and graphics. This section of the exhibition reaches its high point in a period room setting designed to represent an 1869 shoe factory owner's parlor. Furniture actually used by a manufacturer's family will be displayed in an elegant setting illustrating the owner's affluent lifestyle.

In a dramatic contrast to the elaborate living standard of the manufacturer's family is another room setting, a working-class family kitchen of about 1915. Representing a typical tenement or three-decker kitchen, the room includes a coal-fired range, an icebox, and other commonplace possessions of people employed in the shoe industry. Other displays of photographs, artifacts, and a map illustrate the living conditions and family life of Lynn shoe workers.

Early twentieth-century workers lived in a concentrated urban environment in Shoe City. In addition to residential and industrial districts, central Lynn contained commercial and recreational facilities. These are illustrated in the exhibition by enlarged photographs, commercial signs, theater memorabilia, artifacts of city celebrations, and evidence of Lynn's strong booster spirit. At the height of its prosperity, Shoe City's future seemed gloriously promising.

The industrial revolution encouraged a gradual but important change in Lynn's population. Until 1860 nearly all shoe workers were native-born New Englanders. From 1860 on, foreign-born workers from Ireland and Canada arrived to work in the Lynn shoe factories. In the late nineteenth century, immigrants began to arrive from other places: Italy, Poland, Greece, England, Sweden and elsewhere. A colorful variety of materials to illustrate the ethnic diversity and rich social life of Lynn's immigrant peoples, constitutes a section entitled "Human Networks."

Visitors to the "Shoe City" exhibition should emerge with an idea of the heritage of Lynn's industrial revolution. In the final section of the display they may see how Lynn was left without a shoe industry most of the factories having moved or gone out of business. Lynn's principal industry today, General Electric, is an indirect result of shoe manufacturers who brought the Thomson-Houston Electric Company to the city in the 1880's. In 1892, this successful maker of generators and street lighting systems merged into the giant General Electric Company. Visitors will see evidence of Lynn's militant labor tradition, now represented by the electrical workers in local 201 of the International Union of Electrical Workers. Churches and social organizations survive and sustain the cultural roots of Lynn's many ethnic groups.

There may be a future for elements of Lynn's industrial heritage. An Urban Heritage State Park is planned to include and celebrate portions of the shoe industry and its physical remains. The exhibition concludes with two artifacts representing the people's response to their urban inheritance: a poem, "The City," by Vincent Ferrini, who grew up in Lynn; and an oil painting, "View of Lynn", by Lynn native Arnold Trachtman. These works of art both express strong feelings and devotion toward the city of shoes.

Two aspects of the Essex Institute's "Life and Times in Shoe City" exhibition deserve special notice. An oral history program of interviews with former shoe workers and their families has provided much of the information included in the exhibition. Thus the workers themselves prepared parts of the display. Their own words will appear in the text interpreting Lynn's industrial history. An exciting series of special events will accompany the exhibition. The Essex Institute is planning dramatic performances, programs of folk, labor, and antique popular songs, an old timer's day for former shoe workers, demonstrations of shoe making techniques, and a film series. A special highlight is a history workshop scheduled for Oct. 26-27. This workshop will include dialogues between labor historians, labor leaders of the shoe workers' unions, and former rank and file union activists.

Carla Steiger-Meister Work

A photography exhibit will open at the Andover Gallery of Fine Art, 91 North Main St., Andover, on Sept. 14. The show represents the most recent work of artist-photographer Carla Steiger-Meister. The exhibit will remain on view through Oct. 5.

Gallery hours are Tuesday-Saturday 9-5, Sunday 2-5, Monday, closed.

This group of work by Ms. Steiger-Meister is a series of photo-collages. "These images contain fragments from dreams, great novels, myths, and my own musings. Inherent in them too is an interest in personal as well as family history. Technically, the pictures are created by photographing small assemblages of postcards, old photos, paperweights, and assorted colorful bits. They are photographed rather than painted or drawn because this is the best way to actualize the ideas quickly."

Ms. Steiger-Meister has exhibited extensively throughout the United States. Her photographs have been shown in several publications and are in numerous private and public collections, including the International Museum of Photography, Rochester, N.Y. The exhibit is free and open to the public.

Panel On Child Abuse At Library

On Wednesday evening, Sept. 19, Peace Chapter of B'Nai B'Rith Women will sponsor a panel discussion on the topic of child abuse. The general meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Large Meeting Room at Andover's Memorial Hall Library, with the discussion, which will be open to the public, to begin promptly at 8:15.

Speakers on the panel will include:

Linda Caughful, of the Regional Office for Children and instructor on Child Abuse, Merrimack College; Robert Murphy of the Lawrence Welfare Region, and Regional Coordinator of the Child Abuse Hotline; Barbara G., chairperson of the Lowell Chapter of Parents Annonymous and President of the Board of Directors of Mass. Parents Annonymous Organization, Inc.

A question and answer period will follow the discussion.

Carpooling

Carpooling is one answer to conserving energy. The U.S. Dept. of Transportation's Federal Highway Administration estimated in 1975 that a driver can save $281 to $654 a year on a 20-mile daily roundtrip by carpooling. It's more now, of course.

Phillips Academy Records Largest Local Enrollment

Phillips Academy's 202nd year will begin Saturday, Sept. 15 when new students arrive for registration and orientation. The 481 new students this year include 81 boys and girls from Andover, North Andover, Lawrence and Methuen, a record number.

When the "old" students all have returned on the following Monday, total day student enrollment will be 223, the largest number of local students enrolled in PA since the Academy was founded on Andover Hill midway through the American Revolution in 1778.

Total school enrollment this year is 1190, (734 boys, 456 girls) at the coed boarding and day academy. Registrar Herbert Morton notes that this number may fluctuate slightly before school actually is in session. The new students include 24 foreign nationals from 15 countries and many U.S. students who live abroad as well as boys and girls from every area of the U.S. Foreign nationals include an AFS student from Norway, living with the Alan French family on Moreland Road, and nine Kemper Fund students from France, Italy, Spain and Germany who will spend the first trimester of their year living with the families of PA day students in Andover, North Andover and Methuen.

At the first faculty meeting Thursday, Headmaster Theodore R. Sizer welcomed 15 new faculty members and 15 teaching fellows, who arrived several days earlier for their orientation at a Faculty Workshop in company with other school faculty. Some students are already on hand: boys' and girls' varsity athletic teams came a few days early to warm up for the fall athletic season, and a number of student leaders participated in the Student Leadership Workshops, and in Study Skills Workshops to prepare them to tutor younger students; Blue Key Seniors will lead the new students in a three-day Orientation to familiarize them with their surroundings on campus and in town, and begin to make friends. Fall term classes will begin in earnest on Thursday, September 20.

Fall term this year coincides with the last lap of Andover's three-and-a-half-year $50 million Bicentennial Campaign, which draws to a close on Dec. 31. The capital fund drive, centered on the Academy's 200th birthday in 1978, primarily seeks endowment funds to raise student scholarships, faculty salaries and support the educational program.

Monterey Pine

The Monterey pine, native to eight miles od dry hills on the Pacific Coast, grows so slowly that it remains small. When transplanted to the damp climate of New Zealand and Australia, it becomes the fastest growing timber tree in the world, eight feet a year, Massachusetts Audubon notes.

Our Recipe for Success . . .

My purpose is to give my customers the most complete and relaxing hair styling service anywhere. I employ a professional staff of individuals to accommodate the different personalities of my customers. By stressing individual creativity, being a member of an international hair club that conducts seminars and by using the current European magazines, we stay in step with the very latest in hair fashion. My process is simply geared at the total health and style of your hair. Precision hair cutting (average time 45 minutes) means that the hair is cut the way it grows . . . from the scalp, using direction and weight to achieve a free flowing and easily maintained head of hair. The hair is cut with only the finest of sheers, using control and blade rhythm for a cut that will last for two months or more.
Permanent waving or reconstructing hair takes about 2½ hours to do. The hair is first conditioned, then rough cut into style. Rods are then individually wrapped with precision to insure a perfect curl. There are many ways to achieve the desired effect. Weaving, piggy backing, dragging or sticks are used to reconstruct the hair. The client is closely watched, until the curl or wave pattern is achieved. Then we style and form the hair. Color is done by an expert. Frosting, sunburst, foil weave, henna, we have it all. A client is not rushed and is in the privacy of our color room. Henna makes your hair lustrous, radiant, shining and alive and lasts for months. It is not a permanent hair color. It's an organic herb that blends with your own hair color and eliminates the need for touch up or maintenance.
Throughout your appointment with us I guarantee your comfort and the personal attention of your stylist.

Special arrangements are happily made for weddings, modeling or any individual need.
I thank all my customers for being the most important ingredient in my success.

St. Roberts Schedule Changes

The new winter Mass schedule at Saint Robert Bellarmine Church, West Andover, has been announced by Rev. Frederick J. Collins, pastor.

Beginning on Sunday, Sept. 16, Masses will be celebrated at 8, 9:30, and 11 a.m. "Changing the times of parish services is always traumatic," said Father Collins, "but recent reduction in our staff necessitates designing a Sunday program that just two priests, Father Jon Martin and I, can effectively manage." He referred to the June departure of Father Joseph Smyth, who became pastor of St. Mary's in Chelmsford, and the move of Father William Fitzgerald, St. Robert's pastor emeritus, to D'Youville Manor in Lowell. Lacking their able assistance, it was decided to determine the best possible times for three Sunday masses. The 8 o'clock service should accommodate early risers and both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. hours should appeal to those who previously attended the very popular 10:30 Mass.

Other September happenings at Saint Robert's are CCD Registration, Monday through Thursday evenings; Country Day School opening in the week of Sept. 17; Square Dance and Pot Luck Supper on Saturday night, Sept. 29 at K. Of C. Hall.

Church Fair

On Saturday, Nov. 3 from 10 to 4 p.m. the Free Church Pumpkin Patch Fair will be held at 31 Elm St. Miss Ella Petrie is chairman and Mrs. Muriel McAnern, treasurer. All popular tables will again be featured such as, new gifts, country store, bakery, handmade aprons, homemade candy, arts, crafts and Christmas items, white elephants, grabs and children's corner, tea and snack bar.

Learning, Experiences Part Of Church Program

The Religious Education program of the Unitarian Universalist Church of Andover for 1979-80, as announced by Director Dr. Randolph Lehman-Becker, will be a combination of learning and experiences. The learning aspect takes place within a curriculum for ages four through grade six, that includes a course for four and five-year-olds that explores feelings and perceptions, relationships and larger worlds; it is taught by Margaret Levasseur, Meg Calaburda, and Gayle Lehman-Becker.

The first and second graders look to outstanding figures of historical and contemporary stories for their "Adventures of God's Folk" curriculum that includes people as diverse as Martin Luther King, Jr., and Pharoah Akhenaten; they are taught by Cynthia Genier, Gail Ensdorf and Kenneth Hamm. The third and fourth graders will look at "Beginnings," the stories from many cultures and times that tell of the beginning of earth, sky, life, death, and more. William Guay is the teacher of this class. The fifth and sixth grades, under the leadership of Edward Malakoff, is studying "Church Across the Street," an exploration of the major religious groups within our own community.

The experiencing part of the program comes in many forms: the fifth and sixth graders will be worshipping with other religions in their religious studies curriculum; The four and five-year-olders will be taking field trips to discover more about their world. All the classes also have a period of creative arts (art, music, cooking, dance, etc.) each week as part of the regular program. Ann Donovan coordinates the arts program.

In addition to the education programs, both a Nursery Care program for Sunday mornings, and a Junior High Social program were announced in the Education Guide sent to the congregation this week.

Dr. Lehman-Becker, in sharing the plans for the year, emphasized as well the availability of the program to the larger community, with all classes open to those families interested without the need of church membership. Copies of the educational program can be obtained from the church.

The Unitarian Universalist Church is located at 244 Lowell St., route 133, in West Andover; the Religious Education Committee: Betsy Black, Chair; Judy Malakoff, Board Liason; Galena Wood, Margaret and Alberta Galaburda, Ann Donovan, and Chris and Cathy Haskell. It is directed by Dr. Lehman-Becker, an accreditted Director of Religious Education, who also is responsible for the weekly children's Chapel. Registration for the program is on-going, but classes are in their first sessions on Sundays, Sept. 16 and 23 for new comers.

To Observe Sanger Anniversary

Sept. 14, is the 100th anniversary of the birth of Margaret Sanger, pioneer in the fields of family planning and women's health rights advocacy. The Unitarian Universalist Church of Andover will celebrate her life and work in its 10:30 a.m. Service on Sunday, Sept. 16.

Born in corning, N.Y., Margaret Higgins Sanger, trained for medical service, but soon was involved in larger social issues. 1912 found her active in the efforts to assist the children of the Lawrence mill strike efforts that helped bring about a settlement of the strike favorable to the workers.

However, her contact with many of the poor brought her an awareness that a central issue was the right of control over one's own body; in the early part of this century, that centered onhealth care, and the choices of family size. In 1914, Margaret Sanger first used the term "birth control," and found herself indicted for advocating family planning. By 1916, she had found enough support to open the first birth control clinic in the US, in Brooklyn. Despite arrest for the effort, the case finally provided the legal right of married persons to obtain help o advice, and paved the way for the development of the Planned Parenthood movement.

The Sunday service will focus not only on the courage of conviction and action by Margaret Sanger, but the basic rights to knowledge and the rights to choice that she championed.

The Unitarian Universalist Church is located on route 133, Lowell Street in West Andover.

Parenting Courses Offered

Judith Donovan, ACSW of Andover, and her associate Ruth McCarthy, MSW will be offering special interest groups this Fall on "Parenting" and "Re-Establishing Identity After Separation and Divorce."

The group will be limited to ten people and will begin on Sept. 26 for eight sessions.

Ruth McCarthy and Judith Donovan graduated from Boston College School of Social Work in 1959. Both have had extensive experience with family counseling agencies in Greater Lawrence, Haverhill, Lynn and Worcester. Boat People To Be Topic

Caroline Bridgeman Rees, coordinator of the settlement of Boat People in the Greater Lawrence area, will be the resource person at the Sunday, 11:15 a.m. Discussion Forum on Sept. 16 at the Unitarian Universalist Church of Andover.

The local work, part of the world-wide humanitarian efforts to assist the so-called "boat people" of Indo-China, seeks to help the newcomers to adjust to our ways of life, find employment, establish housing on their own, and develop English language skills.

Who the boat people are, the reasons for their emmigration to our country, the problems that face them here, and the ways in which they may be assisted will all be topics of concern.

The Sunday morning Discussion Forum of the Unitarian Universalist Church is a weekly program of presentation followed by open discussion that is open, without charge or collection, to the general public. The church is located at 244 Lowell St. (Rt. 133) in West Andover.

The First Day Back

Substitutes Awarded Increase

Andover school substitutes Tuesday night received their first raise in at least 13 or 14 years.

The school committee unanimously went along with a proposal by Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert to raise regular substitutes to $25 per day, and "preferred" subs to $30 a day.

Seifert noted that a 25 percent increase might seem like a lot, but since they hadn't had one in all those years, the raise doesn't even keep up with inflation.

He said that they were at the point where they could raise the rate, or run the risk of not having substitutes in some of the classrooms when needed. He said $25 was still at the low end of the substitute scale in this area, and that $30 was reasonable for what the schools ask of the "preferred" group.

In other personnel action, the committee approved a long personnel list that included the following resignations: Carol Abdoo, special needs instructional aide (I.A.) at West Elementary; David Axelrod, head building monitor at the high school; James Brennan, parttime English teacher at the high school; Mary Brown parttime I.A. at Doherty; Jean Dana, special needs I.A. at South; Pauline Dowe, special needs I.A. at West Jr. High; Elaine Foote, noon-hour supervisor at South; Teresa Hamm, special needs I.A. at East Jr. High; Maureen Hanawalt, I.A. at the high school; Charity Hotham, English teacher at West Jr. High; Jacqueline Mikonis, graphic arts coordinator at Andover High; Margaret Penkus, health education teacher at Andover High; Mary Poulin, I.A. at Sanborn; Lois Sergi, special needs I.A. at East Jr. High; Jane Tibbetts, parttime L.D. teacher-tutor at West Elementary; Ronald Tibbetts, Grade 5 at Bancroft, and Norma Tomlinson, teacher aide at Andover High.

Frank Cuticchia retired as junior custodian at East Jr. High, while Susana Banford, I.A. at Sanborn and Marie McCarron, Grade 5 teacher at Sanborn, were granted leaves of absence. Fall Meeting Takes On Importance

New Industries Near Construction Phase

Guided through four preliminary steps this week, GCA Corporation and Intertel need only foundation permits before they can begin construction on their neighboring West Andover sites near River Road and Interstate 93.

With the help of Community Development Director Rhys Kear, the industrial development commission and representatives of Arkwright/Boston,who own the land, the two companies obtained sewer tie-in permits, and received generally favorable review of their site and drainage plans.

Intertel and GCA had their sewer plans reviewed by the board of health Monday night in the Theatre Building, then walked up Essex Street to Memorial Hall Library where selectmen approved their sewer permits.

The conservation commission reviewed the drainage plans presented by both firms on Sept. 4, and, finding no major problems, plan to issue orders of conditions on both sites next Tuesday night, Kear said.

Following a favorable site plan review Tuesday by the planning board, GCA had no obstacles remaining before submitting foundation plans to the building inspector for approval. If the plans are approved, the inspector will issue a foundation permit.

Intertel also received a favorable review by the planning board, but Chairman David Erickson asked to see the final plans for lighting, landscape and drainage before approval is given. Those plans were not available Tuesday.

According to plans presented to the planning board, the two companies will share a dead-end access road which will connect with River Road opposite the access road to Hewlitt-Packard and Polaroid. The road will be considered a private driveway, and will not be considered for a street acceptance by the town, Erickson said.

Intertel is a Burlington-based firm which makes test equipment and control systems for large date communications networks. They plan to move in to their new Andover facilities by July 1980.

GCA manufactures capital equipment which is used to make semi-conductors for the electronics industry. They plan to move into their 300,000 square foot facility by 1981.

Representatives of both firms said they want to begin construction as soon as possible.

According to site plans, the access road to the two firms will not run through to Chandler Road, but GCA does plan an emergency access road off Chandler to allow entrance of fire equipment. Combined, the two planned facilities have spaces for parking about 1200 employee cars. A representative of Intertel said he expects his company's facilities to double or triple in the next four or five years. He said the company may build one or two more buildings identical to the 80,000 square foot one presented for consideration Tuesday.

Both facilities will be hidden from RiverRoad by a thick growth of trees.

Tax Exempt Status Lawful

According to a report by Town Assessor William Russell, the Christian Formation Center's tax exempt status should not be altered because parts of the center are rented for non-religious social events.

According to the summary of a letter appearing in the selectmen's agenda, the renting of parts of the center for private parties does not represent the predominant use of the facilities.

The hall is used more often for luncheons and instruction sponsored by the center, according to the report.

The matter was investigated by Russell at the request of the selectmen. Selectman Norma Gammon, noting the frequency with which the center applied for one-day all-alcoholic beverage licenses, and hearing complaints from commercial caterers and restaurants, questioned the validity of classifying all of the center as tax exempt.

She suggested that perhaps part of the center should be taxed, just as commercial portions of the Knights of Columbus and Elks are taxed.

While an article asking for suspension of the bylaw making an October town meeting necessary will face voters, there is an item of some urgency which requires action at this Fall's annual session.

The matter appropriating funds for the continuation of the River Road reconstruction will be required if the work is to be completed this Fall. Failure to obtain a quorum at the October town meeting will result in work being suspended until the Spring, Town Manager Jared S. A. Clark reported this week.

The road improvement project, necessitated by development of the Andover Tech Park industrial area, actually will cost the town nothing, but funds must be appropriated first then reimbursed by state and county agencies.

The issue doesn't have the emotional impact of a leash law or mosquito control, which can generally produce enough enthusiasm to fill the town meeting hall. But it is of importance to the town in order to complete the project and pave the way for continued industrial development in the area as indicated in the plans of the GCA Corporation and Intertel, now going through the procedural preliminaries to major plant construction.

Clark said the Oct. 15 town meeting could be over in about an hour or so, and that while the issues may not be great as long as Andover is governed in this manner, "making the town meeting process function properly, sometimes makes it mandatory to participate."

Clark said he anticipated that two items, bylaws requiring residents, or property owners, to rake leaves and clear sidewalks of snow, could command particular attention.

As for leaf pickup, the town did not replace a leaf-loader this year, due to tax cap legislation and budget cuts, consequently there will be no leaf pickup this year.

Leaf pickup is not provided on a uniform basis throughout the town, Clark pointed out. Scheduling and the short time provided for such service generally results in residents in the center of town getting service, while those in outlying areas are denied.

But, leaf pickup is important, since failure to rid the streets of them will result in plugged drain lines, along with other problems.

Clark said that town meeting provides a forum where the town and its residents can establish some dialogue as to what will and won't be provided, in view of tax cap legislation and the need to cut back in services.

It provides a forum to talk with the community, which in turn can indicate its choices in the decision making process, Clark pointed out.

It provides a forum to talk with the community, which in turn can indicate its choices in the decision making process, Clark pointed out.

A degree of laxity in the procedural aspects of town meeting is allowed for in another inserted article. The article would insure the validity of town meeting action even if certain proceedures mandated by the town charter are not followed to the letter. The 1979 town meeting warrant was mailed seven days before the meeting instead of the mandated ten days. Action of the state legislature was necessary to validate action voted by the meeting. The proposed bylaw change would eliminate the necessity of legislative approval if a similar situation were to arise.

Town meeting may get the opportunity to rescind up to 30 state statutes made optional by recent legislation. According to Clark, the state has given cities and towns two months in which to rescind selected statutes by action of town meetings. While he has not yet determined which statutes, if any, he will recommend that town meeting rescind, Clark said he would discuss them with town counsel and prepare recommendations. The optional statutes include some which call for manditory training and compensation for certain municipal employees.

Selectmen voted not to insert an article asking for $140,000 for the reconstruction of Recreation Park Lodge. Only Selectman Lawrence Sullivan voted in favor of the article.

Two proposed articles which drew a split vote from selectmen were scheduled for reconsideration by the full board next Monday when Selectman Norma Gammon is expected to attend.

One was a proposed bylaw ammendment requiring the removal of snow and ice from sidewalks adjacent to private property withing 24 hours of the end of snow storms. Sullivan and Selectman Chairman Edward M. Harris were opposed to the ammendment.

The other article proposal which drew a tie vote was a bylaw calling for noise emission controls within the town. Noise in residential areas would have to be 60 decibels or less from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. and 50 decibels or less from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. when measured from 50 feet. Noise allowable in commercial areas would be 65 decibels or less and 70 decibels or less in industrial areas. Sullivan and Selectman Susan T. Poore voted against the insertion of the proposed bylaw, saying it would be uninforcible.

The remaining articles inserted and approved by selectmen called for the following:

- Andover to join the North East Solid Waste Study Committee disposal project.
- The prohibition of raking leavs into streets.
- The appropriation of $370 remaining from a federal grant to the police department personal services account.
- Rescinding the 1977 appropriation of $5000 for bikeways and appropriating $20,000 for bikeways. ($15,000 of that would be payed back to the town through a state reimbursement.)
- Payment of about $1500 in unpaid bills.
- The increase of associate members of the zoning board of appeals from two to four.
- Reducing the 1979 appropriation of $75,000 for energy conserving repairs to town buildings to $51,000, with $25,000 reimbursable from grants-in-aid. Repairs would be made to town and school buildings.

Three articles which needed further research were scheduled for consideration at next Monday's meeting.

A charter amendment making the position of chief zoning administrator an appointment of the town manager was scheduled. The would allow the community development director to be made chief zoning administrator without relinquishing his appointment to the zoning board of appeals.

Clark said he wanted to make the community development director the chief zoning administrator for several reasons. First, the community development director istrained in zoning and land use. And he works closely with the planning board which initiates zoning regulations.

Currently the building inspector is the chief zoning administrator. Clark wants to change this, he said, so all department heads will be the chief administrators for all their departments' activities. Also, Clark said, the building inspector is trained primarily in architecture and construction, not zoning and land use.

Selectmen will consider a new zoning bylaw proposal which the planning board passed Tuesday night, and a bylaw to limit the access of fast-food stores in Andover. The fast-food bylaw is modeled on one already used in Arlington and which has been approved by the state attorney general.

The warrant closes Tuesday, Sept. 18, at 4 p.m. and as of Monday no private articles had been received.

The Idea Has Merit

One of the most interesting items on the prospective agenda for the October town meeting, is the question of doing away with the annual fall session as a permanent part of municipal procedure.

When first introduced over a decade ago, there seemed to be a need for such a session, but that need no longer exists. Too, the selectmen can call for a special town meeting at any time in the course of the year if warranted.

The current agenda for the October session may have a number of articles for consideration, a couple which might produce some discussion and interest, but only one of any major import — approval of Chapter 90 funds.

For the most part all of the items could well be put off until the annual meeting in the spring.

At this point obtaining a quorum still would seem to be in jeopardy.

Only the issue of instituting a bylaw to make property owners responsible for leaf pickup and snow removal from their sidewalks or land, would seem to represent an attraction.

The Chapter 90 funds for River Road reconstruction, a project already underway, must be approved if the project is to be completed. Otherwise the additional funds will have to await annual town meeting action in April.

It is one of those items in which the town will be reimbursed, but must appropriate the money initially.

Recent industrial development in the Tech Park, or West Andover area, has necessitated the additional funding for the project.

What this session actually amounts to is the recognition that as long as Andover is run through town meeting action, then the voters and taxpayers of the community will have to face their responsibility and show up.

That's a tall order in this day and age, what with the many other diverse interests and activities commanding attention.

When the town adopted a bylaw which commanded an October town meeting, Andover was faced with a number of major projects, including schools, safety center, other municipal buildings and utility extensions.

It was thought at the time, that possibly, faced with debate and explanation of these capital projects, putting off other items, such as zoning issues, planning board considerations, and bylaw adoptions, could be put off and given more attention at a fall meeting.

Too, there were times when some final decisions had to be reached on some of those major construction projects and they were slotted for October consideration.

There is a major school building project in the offing, but, with a little luck, that can be programmed for the annual session and receive the consideration it needs and deserves.

Removal of the necessity of having to call the October session would appear to be in order. It is classified as a special town meeting anyway, and at one time, as a special session, allowed the Finance Committee to prevent items from coming before the session, if money was involved.

What actually will be required next month, is setting aside an hour or so on the Monday night of the October town meeting and taking the action necessary to eliminate the requirement henceforth.

WEEKLY SPECIAL

As Arab's Price Gouge Continues How Will Carter, Congress Cope?

By Jack Anderson and Joe Spear

WASHINGTON -- The arrogant Arab oil cartel known as OPEC is playing a vicious game of crack-the-whip which has sent the U.S. economy spinning into an ominous vortex of inflation and recession. Because of the petroleum price gouge imposed by the oil-producing nations of the Middle East, American workers are being laid off and American consumers are paying ever-soaring prices for everything they must buy.

Every expert observer we've talked to predicts the Arabs will wield the whip with increasing relentlessness in the future. They'll use the price of oil as a blackmail weapon to make Uncle Sam kowtow on such crucial foreign policy issues as the survival of Israel and recognition of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

In the face of these threats, President Carter has been waving his arms in exhortation like an orchestra leader without a baton and Congress has been fiddling in futility with a long-range energy program. Intelligence strategists in the government, however, have been weighing what countermeasures might be taken if the oil sheikhs decide to tighten the economic thumb screws further in the future.

Secret intelligence reports warn forebodingly that the United States can expect more oil blackmail from the Middle East. Here are some of the unpleasant alternatives we would face: Coming to terms with the Arabs and letting them dictate our foreign policy; living on half the oil we now consume or taking economic retaliatory action.

The first two options would end the United States as a political or economic leader of the free world, rendering us as impotent as the now toothless British lion.

On this basis, the intelligence experts have drawn up "contingency plans" on steps that might be taken if the Arabs persist in their oil squeeze. The blueprint, which has not been adopted and merely represents a hypothetical set of possible "retributive actions," consists of seven steps.

* A freeze of all Arab assets in this country which now amount to billions of dollars in holdings.

* A cut-off of shipments of food, spare parts, machinery and know-how to the Arab countries.

* Adoption of an artificial price-rigging of wheat and other grain shipments essential to the Middle East to match increases in the OPEC price of oil.

* Ordering U.S. firms to stop doing business with the Arab world.

* Blocking Arab shipping and communications interests from using U.S. facilities.

* Suspending technical and military assistance.

* Stopping visas to Arab students and businessmen.

The secret intelligence papers caution strongly that such retaliatory moves would provoke Arab hostilities and "drastically reduce or perhaps halt" oil shipments into this country. This could lead to a crisis calling for military intervention on our part. In such an extreme case, the 82nd Airborne Division has had field exercises centering on a take-over of the Mideast oil fields and the Marine Corps has been trained in seaborne landings on shores similar to those in the area.

Jimmy Carter-Truman: In these dark hours of politically disastrous polls, Jimmy Carter envisions himself as doing a Harry Truman in 1980. He and his inner circle are casting him in the image of the Man from Independence who staged the biggest upset in presidential history by defeating Tom Dewey in 1948.

But while Truman captured votes by lambasting a "do-nothing" GOP Congress, Carter may have to rely on help from the Republicans on the Hill this year and next. When Congress returned last week, we talked to a number of Democrats who had taken soundings from their constituents during the summer recess. Without exception, they told us they'd found the folks at home were disenchanted with the president.

They reported there was no personal animosity toward Carter; they just believed he wasn't big enough for the job. Seven Democratic senators who face tough re-election races say they'll disassociate themselves from the president. They fear his coattails may prove to be a lead balloon.

Evidence of their lukewarm support will become apparent in the remaining months of this year's session. They'll either shun backing the Georgian's legislative proposals or offer their own versions.

On the other hand, the word in Capitol cloakrooms is that Republican senators and House members will take it a little easy on the beleaguered president. Because of his low standing in the polls, they want him to get the Democratic nomination on grounds he'll be easy to beat next November. My sources tell me word has been passed to ease up on attacks on Carter -- until after the Democratic convention renominates him or picks someone else.

Headlines and Footnotes: Republican presidential hopeful Phil Crane has discovered a political truth: Never count your campaign egg until it's hatched. The Illinois congressman hired right-wing fund-raising magician Richard Viguerie to get him money but the two came to a parting of the ways recently. Viguerie Enterprises hauled in $2.5 million in contributions on Crane's behalf but the bottom line was that Viguerie's outfit deducted $2 million of that for their help.

* What a difference a state makes if you are sick. A study by the Indiana Blue Cross Company found that the cost of staying a day in a hospital in Wyoming averages $133. A patient hospitalized the same day in Massachusetts would be paying almost double that.

* The Pentagon brass is costing the taxpayers millions a year by throwing away gold and silver, according to experts. The military uses silver in its photography labs and medical facilities; gold is used in items such as buttons and eyeglasses. Other government agencies such as the Veterans Administration manage to recoup up to 85 percent of the precious metals they deal with by recycling. But the Defense Department recovers only 21 percent of the silver it uses. Metallurgical experts estimate that the brass and braid of the military services are tossing away about $320 million a year in recoverable gold and silver.

DON'T FORGET FURNITURE IN THOSE CORNERS

Many people fail to make good use of corners when they furnish their homes. Here's one place where you can really help yourself in both a practical and a decorative way.

For instance, you might consider a cabinet of some kind in a corner. This is an ideal way to give yourself a piece to provide extra storage and display, and if you pick the right looking cabinet, you've also improved the looks of a room.

That's what's known as making the best use of the space in your home.

There are many other options for using the corners in your rooms. You might want to think about a chest; or a desk in one corner if you don't have room for it elsewhere; or a chair-and-table in a corner.

Another good decorating idea for a corner is a console with perhaps a lamp on it and a mirror above it. This can add a beautiful spot to any room.

And, remember to think about using those corners not just in the living room but in any room of your home. Those corners give you the opportunity to increase the beauty and usefulness of your home, and we are here to give you a selection of furnishings for any or all of your needs.

Haunted House Committee To Form

The town of Andover will have it's first Haunted House this coming Halloween evening. This special project will help keep this children's holiday a safe and most memorable occasion.

To convert the Stowe school into a safe but eerie haunted house is a challenge the Department of Community Services is posing to the community. Many volunteers are needed to aid in the many facets of this one time only event. Guides, props, costumes, and creative minds are necessary to pull this special holiday event together.

Come and join this community based project when the Haunted House Committee will meet for the first time Wednesday, Sept. 26 at 8 p.m. in the Stowe School, 36 Bartlet St.

Volunteers are also needed for the Halloween Party for K-6 graders. Persons who are interested for either of the above programs should contact the Community Services Department.

Down The Years With The Townsman

50 Years Ago — September 1929

The three-day carnival of the Knights of Columbus which is being held on the lawn adjacent to the clubhouse will close this evening. Articles to chose from include the ever-popular blankets, dolls, floor and table lamps and toilet sets.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Public Works, Superintendent Charles T. Gilliard reported an inspection of hydrants was started this month, the construction of bridges on Main Street has caused a temporary halt of water service to those areas, and two major leaks were repaired, one to the spa on Main Street and the other to the golf clubhouse in Shawsheen.

The contract has been signed by the selectmen for an elelctromatic stop and go sign at the junction of Main and Chestnut Streets. This is the last word in mechanical devices for traffic control. It will be installed shortly.

Cyrus Gates, son of Mr.and Mrs.Edith B. Gates of Grdner Avenue has accepted a position with Russell Albers, president of the Packard Motor Company, Detroit.

Abbot Academy will reopen next Tuesday with approximately the same enrollment as last year. New students are entered from Arabia, India, China, the Phillipines and Honolulu. These are all, however, of American parentage.

Antique Show At No. Andover

The First Annual Olde North Andover Center Antiques Exhibit and Sale, sponsored by The Cochickewick Lodge AF & AM, will be held at the Masonic Lodge, Johnson Street, near The Textile Museum, (Route 495 to Mass.Ave., Exit 31), Olde North Andover Center Tuesday, Sept. 18, 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Wednesday, Sept. 19, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Exhibitors from all the New England area will display and offer for sale a choice array of antiques including formal and country furniture, glass, china, lamps, orientals silver, antique jewelry, clocks, primitives, quilts, linens, rugs, books, prints, paintings, pewter, pottery, woodenware, brass, copper, toys, tools and many other hard-to-find heirlooms and unusual Americana.

There will be a "Home Cooking Country Kitchen" offering homemade luncheons and sweets during the hours of the two-day affair. Tickets will be available at the door and children under 12 will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult. All of the antiques will be for sale.

David J. Morse of Andover, will be the show chairman and Loring C. Kasperson, Centre Chimney, Hollis N.H. will be the show director.

25 Years Ago — September 1954

The town is rapidly recovering from the widespread damage caused by the Aug. 31 hurricane. Hundreds of trees felled across streets have been removed, power and phone lines in most places have been restored, damaged roofs are being repaired and many of the torn branches of trees and leaves that were piled high on the sides of streets have been carted away or burned.

The Andover public schools opened yesterday with a record attendance of 2340 pupils. This is 198 more than the number on the opening day last year. It is expected that these figures will be further increased next week by other who have not yet returned from summer vacations.

A group of local citizens interested in the United Fund plan of raising money for community projects and other worthy causes met Tuesday evening to organize a campaign for Andover under the chairmanship of selectman Stafford A. Lindsay.

All of the 12 members of the Andover Junior Garden Club who submitted exhibits in the Topsfield Fair won first prizes in the judging last Sunday.

10 Years Ago — September 1969

The selectmen and town manager were to confer this week with police officials relative to complaints of hot rodding and other matters in the Ballardvale area.

Voters at the special town meeting on Oct. 6 will face action on 35 articles, with the major monetary items dealing with school problems. The largest single monetary item deals with the planning for expansion of Central School. A total of $90,000 is asked for acquisition of property on Whittier Court and next to the Central School.

Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert brought a comprehensive 10-point year's work program for himself to the first school committee meeting of the academic year and he invited members to suggest additions. Seifert revealed another immediate concern when he handed out his broad outline for the Andover School department's budget process — the watchwords being "staff involvement" and "accountability." He warned that there would be rough spots this first year, but that work is beginning toward a budget system with built-in accountability.

75 Years Ago — September 1904

The horse owned by George C. Donnells, and used on his fish cart, dropped dead in his stable on Summer Street last Saturday evening after having just been driven into it. It is thought heart disease was the cause.

The police are very active in their endeavor to rid the sidewalks of bicycle riders. A short time ago complaint was made to the police that pedestrians were compelled to go into the road several times. A policeman was put on the case and several arrests were made.

A report has been circulated throughout the town to the effect that the public schools would not open on Monday as the work which is being done on the building would not be finished. This statement is erroneous, as neither the superintendent of schools, Corwin F. Palmer, nor any member of the board made this statement. Mr. Palmer wishes it stated that all the schools will open Monday morning at the usual time. There will be a little inconvenience for a few days, but not enough to cause the closiong of the schools.

Miss Helen A. Whittemore, having taken the tuning course last year at the New England Concervatory of Music, will receive orders for tuning and repairing pianos.

A Fairwell To Glory?

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

I wish I did not feel compelled to write this letter, and since I no longer reside in Andover some will think it inappropriate. Nonetheless, I've had three children graduate from Andover High, a fourth is due to graduate soon, I work in Andover, and I did live there for four years. Thus, I write this letter.

A few years back, several men got together and started an Andover Track Club. The goals were to hold development meets where the children could be exposed to track and field, the Jr. and Sr. High athletes could develope their skills and the adults could compete if they saw fit or just watch. Plans were to lead eventually to track and field clinics and at least once a year, an AAU sanctioned meet. What better place for such an idea than Andover, one of the track and field capitols of Massachusetts.

Last month the last track and field meet of 1979 was held and the turnout was nothing short of pathetic. Oh, there were some young children there, but almost no Jr. High, High School or adult participants or spectators. In fact, the field turnout was so bad that no weight events could be held.

Now, I recognize that I'm one of those people who love track and field and everyone doesn't necessarily share that feeling. If I believed that were it, this letter would never have been written.

From inception of the idea to today, the load has been carried, as it usually is, by a few, always the same people. The apathy in leadership, participation, support and organization is abundant. My concert is that I fear that this apathy is the same that has given rise to the state of our nation and the stature of the officials we choose to lead us; the same apathy that has driven our productivity in a shameful direction; the same apathy that has ever increasingly separated parental guidance from child raising.

If it is simply the fact that Andover doesn't need or want a track club, than I apologize for this letter. However, if as I fear, this is just another sign of our times, then I hope this letter hits a resonant cord with someone. For if such is the case and changes are not quickly made, then not only Andover and her future generations, but our national existence as we now know it can bid a farewell to glory.

Energy Expo At College

Massachusetts Electric Company and Merrimack College will sponsor Energy Expo '79, an alternative energy and conservation exposition on Saturday, Sept. 29, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the S. Peter Volpe Physical Education Center, Merrimack College in North Andover.

One of three regional energy "Expos" sponsored this fall by Mass. Electric, the fair is intended to give consumers the latest information on new energy sources and conservation ideas for the home. The event is geared for the whole family and admission will be free.

At the day-long exposition, more than 40 exhibitors will display, explain and sell energy-related equipment including solar water heaters, wood stoves, insulation materials and wind generators.

The festivities will feature demonstrations on wood splitting and do-it-yourself energy saving projects. In addition, Mass. Electric's chief conservation advocate, Lester Litebulb, will personally hand out Energy Expo '79 balloons and conservation coloring books to children.

There will also be literature containing energy saving ideas, displays and films on making electricity from the sun, wind and tides.

All visitors to Energy Expo '79 will be eligible to win a cord of firewood for use this winter.

Free parking will be available, and refreshments will be on sale.

When reptiles ruled the world, there were 16 orders of the biological class Reptilia. Today, only four remain.

Challenge Papal Visit Expenses

The Rev. Gayle and Dr. Randolph Lehman-Becker, co-Ministers of the Unitarian Universalist Church of Andover, have sent letters to both Gov. King and Mayor White, asking that government funding of the visit of Pope John Paul II be limited to matters of public safety, and that special consideration, in the form of city or state holidays, be withheld.

Members and friends of the congregation have also sent petitions to these leaders asking for the same respect of the constitutional separation of church and state.

Noting the plans being proposed, Dr. Lehman-Becker commented "that it is amazing that anyone would consider the building of a $150,000. altar for an act of sectarian worship is appropriate for a government body. And, to plan to provide a holiday for the occasion is more than we give in honor of our own President. It is obviously a violation of a sacred heritage of keeping Church and State separate."

The Lehman-Beckers noted that they have no objection to expenses that deal specifically with issue of public safety and welfare; "those would be granted to any visiting dignitary. But, whereas the present plans call for extra-ordinary provisions and expenses, we can only assume it is on the basis of the Pope's religious position."

"If they will not honor our Constitutional guarantees voluntarily, then the only recourse will have to be a legal one, which would be a sad, but necessary, way to greet this great dignitary who will come to visit here. But, our freedom of religion is still more important than the Pope's dignity and status."

The Lehman-Beckers noted that they were speaking out as individual clergy,

Cub Pack 102 To Register

In conjunction with the North Essex Council School Night, Bancroft School Cub Scout Pack 102 will hold its annual registration for new and returning cubs on Thursday, Sept. 20, from 7 to 8 p.m. Due to repair work being done at Bancroft, registration this year will be held at the Shawsheen School cafeteria. All boys ages 8 thru 10 are welcome.

Stuart MacIntire, cubmaster, will be available Thursday to help the boys sign up and to discuss with parents and children the rewarding opportunities available for the boys in the cub scout program.

Parents who would be willing to contribute a few hours a month serving as a pack committee member are also needed.

The Gas Bomb

You're driving a bomb if you have gasoline in the trunk of your car, the Institute says. The trunk affords little chance of air circulation and gets hotter than the driving compartment. Escaping vapors can explode without warning when touched off by the electrical system. in the event of a rear end collision, the car and occupants would be a complete write-off.

L.G.H. Plans Benefit Road Race

Lawrence General Hospital (LGH), is trying to keep people fit while they are still very much on their feet.

The LGH Employee Association is sponsoring the First Annual Dr. Paul F. Donahue Memorial Road Race, an accurate 6.8 mile course on country roads around Lake Cochichewick in North Andover, on Sunday, Oct. 14.

The race is sanctioned by the New England Amateur Athletic Union.

The event is named for Paul F. Donahue, M.D., a North Andover pediatrician and LGH Chief of Pediatrics who died unexpectedly this summer at the age of 47. His own children are runners. Race planners hope to include special athletic programs for children in addition to the main race in the future runnings of this annual event.

While hopes are to merely break even this year through entry fees and contributions, any additional proceeds will be placed in the hospital's existing Paul F. Donahue, M.D. Memorial Fund.

A two-mile fun run begins the day's activities at 11 a.m. Beginning runners and, especially, children, are encouraged to enter this race.

The 6.8 mile race begins at 12 noon. There will be water stations, splits and mile markers provided along this paved course.

Free T-shirts will be given to all preregistrants for the 6.8 mile race. Preregistration deadline is Oct. 6.

The entry fee is $1 for the fun run, before or on the day of the race. Entry fees for the 6.8 miler are $2 with advance registration or $3 after Oct. 6.

Registration forms can be picked up at many sports shops and YMCA's or YWCA's, or by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Race Director Carole Schultz, P.O. Box 305, North Andover, MA 01845 or race information can be obtained by calling (617) 682-2703 between 6 p.m. and 10 p.m.

Prizes, trophies, medals and merchandis will be awarded in various male and female age divisions. In addition to regular race categories, special awards for runners associated with Lawrence General Hospital will be given.

The site of the race is Hardtcourt, an 80-acre estate well-known in the Andover area as the former Campion Hall, a Jesuit residence.

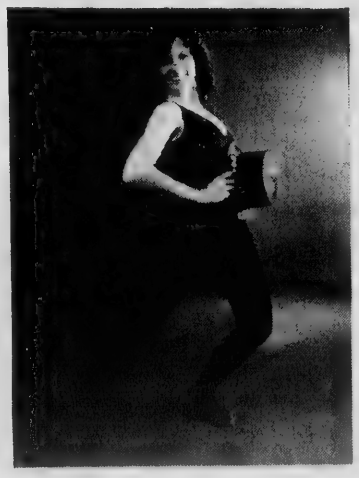
MISS MIDDLESEX COUNTY 1978 OPENS DANCE STUDIO



NANCY CHIPPENDALE

Nancy Chippendale was crowned Miss Middlesex County 1978 with her fast-stepping tap dance to Duke Ellington's "It Don't Mean A Thing". This Miss America preliminary gave her the opportunity to compete in the Miss Massachusetts Pageant where she was a semi-finalist.

Winning pageants is not Ms. Chippendale's only accomplishment. She was the choreographer and producer for the 1979 Miss Middlesex County Pageant and the Miss Chelmsford Pageant. Her dance training also gave her the opportunity to tour with a dance company which led to her acceptance, after a private audition, to the famed Radio City Music Hall Rockettes. Her eleven years of dance training has made Nancy well versed in tap, jazz, ballet, hawaiian and tahitian. Ms. Chippendale's training can be credited to such well-known teachers as Roni Mahler, Fred Knecht, Ron Daniels and Danny Hoctor preceded by original training and five years of student-teacher training with Vicki Jo Boyer.

After much hard work and dedication, Nancy is opening her own studio at the North Andover Grange Hall in the old center. She will be giving class and private instruction in tap, jazz, ballet, hawaiian and tahitian.

For registration or information, call 685-4605 anytime after 5:30. Classes will begin September 10.

SEABROOK — ANDOVER'S OWN THREE-MILE ISLAND?

Were you frightened by the accident at Three Mile Island? The states of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and New York came close to an unprecendented catastrophe where up to 100,000 people could have died. Could you visualize a meltdown that would have contaminated cities, land, and water for decades?

The Seabrook nuclear power plant is within twenty-five miles of the Greater Lawrence area.

The Seabrook nuclear power plant is located on a geological fault.

One of the proposed routes for transporting the radioactive waste that Seabrook must produce is along Rt. 495, through Lawrence, Andover and Tewksbury.

Exposure to radioactive poisons from used nuclear fuel can cause cancer, leukemia, birth defects, genetic damage, heart disease and premature aging.

Plutonium, a radioactive waste product which will be produced at Seabrook, is one of the most toxic materials known. Plutonium is not biodegradable, it has a half-life of 24,300 years and will remain deadly for 500,000 years.

Millions of us believed that the safety standards set by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission were adequate to safeguard our health regardless of how close we might live to a nuclear power plant. Until a few months ago we believed the nuclear industry's scientists and engineers claims that their nuclear power plants were safe. But more recently the House Government Operations Committee completed a study in which they found that "the Nucelar Regulatory Commission had created an illusion of protection." And, of course, we have all experienced Three Mile Island!

Because we, your neighbors and fellow property owners in Andover, are concerned about the nuclear madness that threatens the survival of our families and the beauty of our town, we have joined together and organized the MERRIMACK VALLEY CLAMSHELL ALLIANCE.

We aim to educate ourselves and our neighbors about the hazards of nuclear power. We want to investigate the options available to New England to insure adequate energy supplies at reasonable costs.

We already know that there are significant alternative energy sources, that we really don't need a Seabrook on Andover's doorstep. We also know that Seabrook won't reduce our energy bills, quite the contrary. Given the design of Seabrook, its location on a major geological fault and the very spotty record of control exercised by industry officials over the functioning of nuclear power plants, it is very likely that Seabrook will reduce the value of our homes as well as shorten our lives.

This Fall, the MERRIMACK VALLEY CLAMSHELL ALLIANCE plans to bring various speakers to Andover to discuss different aspects of nuclear power. The list of our speakers includes comedian and social activist Dick Gregory, Professor George Wald, Nobel Laureate in Biology at Harvard, Professor Howard Zinn from Boston University and Dr. Helen Caldicott, a pediatrition from Boston Children's Hospital. We also propose to establish a speakers bureau which will provide speakers for public schools and various interested social groups in the Greater Andover area. The MERRIMACK VALLEY CLAMSHELL ALLIANCE will also participate in the October 6th non-violent occupation of the Seabrook construction site.

We, your neighbors, fellow parents, and homeowners of Andover who are also members of the MERRIMACK VALLEY CLAMSHELL ALLIANCE need your moral, financial and participatory support. If for any reason you feel you can't join our group actively, you can still support the struggle to prevent the building of a nuclear power plant on our doorstep with a financial contribution. Any amount you can contribute will help pay for this advertisement as well as other aspects of our work.

Please make your check payable to:

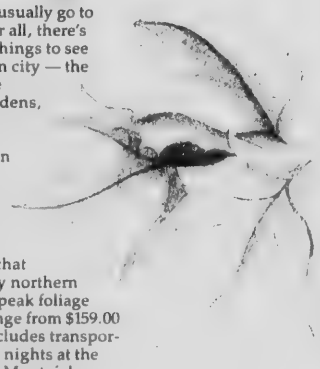
Who goes to Montreal to see foliage?



Actually, most people don't usually go to Montréal to see foliage. After all, there's just so many other exciting things to see in this bustling cosmopolitan city — the French Quarter, Notre Dame Cathedral, the Botanical Gardens, Mount Royal and so much more! But we at Addison Travel know a good trip when we see one — that's why we're offering a great three day weekend bus tour from Andover to Montréal on October 6th, 7th, and 8th. And the added attraction is that you'll ride through the lovely northern New England mountains at peak foliage season on the way! Prices range from $159.00 to $119.00 per person and includes transportation via Michaud bus, two nights at the luxurious Hotel Meridien in Montréal, one box lunch, and one dinner show. Rates are based on 30 passengers and there's a fuel surcharge of $1.50. For more information about this exciting trip call Helen or Kirby at 475-7872. You may not be going to Montréal to see the foliage, but you'll love seeing the foliage along the way!

School Openings Smooth

Andover public schools opened with 5720 pupils last week and Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert called it one of the smoothest of the 11 school openings he's experienced here.

The only continuing problem — and Seifert said he wouldn't consider it a "serious" one — was busing (see separate story.)

Enrollment dropped a total of 265 pupils — 193 elementary and 72 secondary — from last year, and 111 more than the declining enrollment committee had predicted for January of 1980.

But the administration was just about on target with staffing planned last spring.

The school committee Tuesday night did approve the dropping of one fourth grade class at Shawsheen because enrollment was less than projected there. Classes on the high side — but to be compensated by additional aide time — are the Bancroft fifth grade West Elementary fifth grade (Contemporary program) and the Traditional fourth grade.

Seifert said there has been an actual reduction of 15 teachers over a year ago.

The superintendent complimented Bancroft students and faculty on the smooth transition to their temporary schools, and said the only problem area is where Bancroft pupils meet in special rooms, such as the art room, in the host schools. In those cases, Seifert said the specialist teachers are finding some inconvenience.

Seifert said he was very much struck by the cooperative spirit of the faculty this year, and noted that schools were cleaner for school opening than he has ever seen them.

Only the outside of two schools was a problem, he said.

As for student attitudes, Seifert sees a continuance of "a certain level of seriousness" about school. More and more pupils are indicating that they want to get wrapped up in the business of learning, he said.

School Bus

added that "walkers" who sneak illegally onto the buses can bring the total up to 84 or 85 riders per bus in some cases.

When there's a change in the routes, he said, it's impossible for the drivers to know right away who should be riding. Seifert said that Andover High Principal Phil Wormwood had also suggested bus passes, feeling that "walkers are going to have to walk."

Seifert said that in the past, there has been a tendency to kick pupils off the buses only as a "last resort." He said drivers tend to want to be friends, and are concerned about harrassment.

However, Seifert said he feels most pupils are now tired of the profanity, spitting and abuse that occur on many routes, and that the driver who "clean house" might get a little flack for a couple of days, but in the long run would have the support of the other riders.

Stephen Fletcher of Briarwood Circle, with two youngsters in school, didn't agree with the state that 80 pupils on a bus is appropriate, and noted a growing national concern that school children should even be seat-belted.

Anthony Romano, a new resident on Algonquin Avenue, agreed that the bus drivers "do the impossible." He said he had been at the bus stop with his first grader when the door opened to reveal a full load of standees.

"We may be within the law," he said, "but not within the safety standards of our own personal feelings.

Romano questioned the bus cutbacks as a means of saving money and School Committeeman Joseph Finn replied that "it's not a question of saving money . . . it's a question of the money just not being there." He said they were trying to live within the budget given by town meeting, and that the committee had cut transportation instead of academic programs.

In fact, busing could be cut back even further.

Seifert said Tuesday night that the administration is proceeding, per school committee request, toward to plan to implement the state's two-mile minimum for busing. Andover now buses elementary youngsters who live more than a mile and secondary pupils who live more than a mile and a half from school.

Pupils could also, he said, be required to walk up to a mile to the bus stop.

School Chairman Elaine Viehmann indicated she would support a grass roots movement to get more bus funds from town meeting. She said she felt a private article would carry more weight than if the school committee went back to the town for more.

Seifert indicated that busing woes might also cause half-day program for first graders to be scrapped next year.

The special buses that took first graders home after lunch, for the first 10 days of school, were dropped this year because of budget constraints, and the first graders piled onto the kindergarten buses.

That changes "the rules of the game," Seifert said, adding that the first graders were spending too much time on the bus and not enough in school. Some of them, he said, have been on the bus for up to an hour and 45 minutes.

Silver Dollars

Two sales of 978,134 Carson City silver dollars — last of the Government's holdings of the historic coins — will be early next year, the U.S. General Services Administration announced today.

The agency is asking for an expression of interest from persons interested in purchasing the coins. It is requested they send a post card with their name and address, including zip code, to: Carson City Silver Dollars, San Francisco, Calif. 94170. Information and order forms will be sent those on the list prior to the sales.

The marketing plan closely follows the recommendations submitted by an advisory panel of numismatic experts to GSA Administrator Rowland G. Freeman

Approve Water Protest Letter

Rejection of the Merrimack Valley Planning Council report on clean water as being inadequate to plan for federally mandated water quality improvements has been put into writing by selectmen.

A draft of a letter outlining Andover's dissatisfaction with the MVPC report was written by Public Works Director Robert McQuade.

The letter, addressed to the acting Commissioner of the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Quality Engineering, will also be sent to state and federal representatives and members of the federal environmental protection agency.

According to the letter, Andover found many problems with the so-called 208 water quality plan, and suggested three areas which should be considered to improve the MVPC report:

- Develop cost-effective ways of achieving the water quality goals.
- Produce a plan and define management areas that will implement the plan.
- Establish a continuing planning process.

The letter said that the town admired ther MVPC work considering the limited funding available to do it, saying, "from the beginning we have felt that the initial scope of work and funding have been entirely inadequate to accomplish such an undertaking."

Adequately addressing three of eight categories of pollution sources which should be dealt with, the letter said, would cost more than all existing funds for 208 planning in the Merrimack Valley.

The arguments against the MVPC plan for 208 water quality planning were summed up as follows:

"We strongly recommend that the MVPC face reality and say "NO" to the state and federal government until adequate funding is available in order to determine the actual needs and commitments of the communities. If we are truly committed to improving our water quality it is imperative that any future 208 plans determine the most effective solutions and insure that any future expenditures will actually accomplish its proposed goals. In closing, we wish to have it explicitly noted the Town of Andover does not endorse the report as presented. It (the report) fails to meet the requirements of public law 92-500, section 208."

When asked what the reaction of the recipients of the letter might be, Town Manager Jared S. A. Clark said he thought they would say they appreciated the letter but that there is only $1.5 million to spend in the state on the 208 program and that there is not much that can be done to increase that amount.

McQuade suggested meeting with Rep. Gerald Cohen to map a strategy to convince the governor not to accept the report as the 208 plan for the Merrimack Valley.

Clark said he thought there was little hope that the governor would not sign it.

Selectman Susan T. Poore suggested the governor try to influence representatives in Washington to increase the funding. "If the Governor can shuttle to Washington on other matters, he can shuttle to Washington on this — which is a biggie."

Diet Center Opens In Methuen

The Diet Center, offering a new concept in weight loss and nutritional counseling is open in Methuen at 213 Broadway.

The new center is owned and operated by Gilda Edelstein and Ellen Newman, and managed by Nancy Emerson, all of whom have completed intensive training in diet and nutrition at Diet Center headquarters in Idaho. Like all Diet Center counselors, these three women have conquered their own weight problems, having lost a combined total of over 160 pounds.

Mrs. Edelstein and Mrs. Newman opened their first Diet Center in Haverhill last April, and report that their clients have already lost a total of nearly 3500 pounds. Their success in Haverhill was the prime factor in their decision to open another center in Methuen.

Miss Emerson, who has "been on every diet program avilable at one time or another," was so impressed by her success in a short time at the Haverhill center that she decided to give up her career as a dental hygienist to join the growing Diet Center chain.

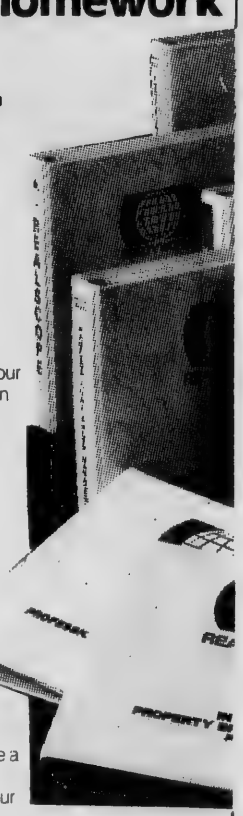
It takes lots of homework to make sure a house sells for the right price, at the right time.



Do you want to know the optimum price your house will bring in today's market? Then listen to the voice of experience— not to neighbors or amateurs.

The price must be based on cold hard facts, research, and an intimate understanding of what's selling for how much in your market area. Underpricing or overpricing can boobytrap your plans.

Making these evaluations is the work of seasoned professionals who have the benefit of advanced training at Realty World Academy, plus all the records of all the sales in this area. We have our finger on the pulse of the market unlike anyone else. Market evaluation is a world all of its own— but one that revolves around you and your future.

Trust us to do our homework. It could make a difference of thousands.

BURGLAR-PROOF SLIDING DOORS

Burglaries always increase during vacation periods when the homeowner is away. One of the favorite accesses is via the sliding glass door. Today's standard hardware for locking sliding doors is pretty flimsy and even an amateur will have no trouble in gaining entrance. But here's how you can outwit the culprit.

Cut a length of dowel (or broom handle) the right length and lay it in the track between the door and the opposite jamb. No way that sliding door can be slid without removing this wedge.

The groove at the top is twice as deep as the one on the bottom for easy removal. Foil this by cutting a piece of wood slightly less thick than the depth of the lower groove. Screw it into the upper groove, over the door when it's in locked position. Now the door can't be lifted out unless it is opened all the way.

More Public Safety Personnel Needed

As part of the fiscal 1980-1981 budget preparations Town Manager Jared S. A. Clark is considering personnel additions to the fire and police departments and possibly to the staff of building inspectors.

Clark told selectmen Monday night that he may request the hiring of eight additional patrolmen, four firefighters and perhaps a police captain. He did not specify how many building inspectors he was considering.

Clark said he had no recommendations yet about the additions, but he wanted the board to know what staff additions he was considering.

The additional patrolmen are needed, Clark said, according to the town's growth since ten years ago, the last time an addition was made to the force. The town's growth is measured, Clark said, by population increases, the number of miles of roads, and increases in the residential, commercial and industrial buildings in town. The addition of the eight officers would bring the force to 49.

Salary for a starting patrolman is $13,562 a year according to the current police contract. The new officers would require an additional patrol car, too, Clark said.

The position of captain presently does not exist within the department, Clark said, but it was recommended several years ago by a public administration services study.

Clark said the possible addition of the four firefighters would be consistent with recent additions to the fire department.

With the current increased construction in Andover, Clark said, it may be necessary to add building inspectors to the town staff. The consequences of stretching the inspection staff too thin may be "a list of improperly constructed buildings," Clark said.

Selectmen requested that Clark compile figures which justify the need for any personnel additions he may want to recommend.

Committee Honors Top Student

Tamar Gendler, daughter of Rabbi and Mrs. Everett Gendler, Tuesday night received a special plaque from the school committee as the top 8th grade math student in New England Math League competition.

Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert said Tamar received the "top perfect score," and the entire West Jr. High 7th and 8th grade teams took first prize in their grade competitions. Plaques were also presented to Math Teacher Ruth Nelson and West Principal William E. Hart.

Some 370 schools participated.

Seifert noted that East Jr. High and Andover High did not participate in the competition though, he added, that was not to detract from the performance of the math department of West Jr. High.

Best Buys

A bountiful harvest of Massachusetts crops leads off the list of best buys of September.

Native sweet corn is still plentilful, especially the all-white Silver Queen and the bi-colored "butter and sugar" varieties.

The harvesting of crisp, native McIntosh apples has begun, and local growers are reporting an excellent qauality apple crop, according to the Massachusetts Food and Agriculture Department.

Fresh cranberries are another good September buy, and the forecast is that Massachusetts will again be the number one cranberry producing state in the nation.

Good vegetable buys this month include green beans, cabbage, carrots, celery, cucumbers, Cubanelle and sweet peppers, vine ripened tomatoes, zucchini, summer yellow, fall Turban and the scallop-edge patty pan squash varieties.

Greens are reasonably priced and you'll find a good selection of chicory, escarole, Boston, Romaine, salad bowl and leaf lettuce varieties.

Best fruit values for September include cantaloupes, "Sugar Baby" watermelons and other melon varieties, limes Bartlett pears, Italian prune plums, Concord and other grape varieties. Supplies of peaches and nectarines will be winding down toward the end of the month.

Egg supplies are plentiful nationwide, and one way to determine freshness is to look for the Massachusetts label.
